

Your Software

Creating your own Perfect software...

How to create the perfect software to help manage your business...

1. Analyse each of your business functions and procedurise what is done.
2. Write a detailed report of exactly what data is needed, stored and which of it needs to be retrieved quickly in a variety of ways.
3. Formulate the key reports so that you can measure your business performance.
4. Benchmark your organisation against many others in your sector to help you identify best practice methods.
5. Adopt these best practices into your own procedures and processes.
6. Hire yourself a team of skilled software6 programmers.
7. Teach them about your business – take them through steps 1 to 5.
8. Jointly write a specification of what you would like the software to do.
9. Review the specification across each sector of your business, amend and then review again until accurate.
10. Start to write the software for each section of your business.
11. Test the software against the specification and against user requirements.
12. Modify the software until point 11 is agreed.
13. Implement the software and train all the users.
14. Iron out the “bugs” and performance issues that occur because it is now used in real-time in real-life circumstances – instead of the planned ones!
15. Continue to hire the skilled programmers to provide ongoing support. Start at point 1 again as your business continues to evolve.
16. Start at point 1 again as your business continues to evolve.
